What is PFI and why would you want to be a sponsor?

The Pellet Fuels Institute is a non-profit association that serves the pellet industry, which is comprised of pellet mills, pellet appliance manufacturers, and industry suppliers. The Institute is active in educating consumers about the convenience and practicality of using wood pellet fuel in both residential and commercial applications.

PFI members represent the broad spectrum of the densified biomass fuel industry. The Pellet Fuels Institute has grown to over 100 members in the U.S., Canada, and Europe.

The 2019 PFI Annual Conference highlights the most important issues impacting the pellet industry. Join colleagues from the densified biomass industry, academia, and federal, state, and local governments from North America and beyond for this can't-miss event featuring two days of educational sessions, industry exhibits, and extensive networking opportunities.
